- Ø PayPal (www.paypal.com) is a guaranteed safe method of transferring funds without checks, cash or direct credit card transactions.
- Ø PayPal is free to the person sending money.
 - Funds can be sent from either bank accounts or credit cards to us via our email account from both the US and Canada
 - Financial information is not shared with either the buyer or receiver
 - There is 100% guaranteed protection against unauthorized payments sent from your account.
- Ø How it works to sign up to send money
 - There is a one-time quick process to set up an account, password protected.
 - To make sure bank account transfers will work properly, PayPal transfers two small deposits into your account; when you verify you've received them you're set up to either send or receive money.
- Ø How it works to send money
 - Once you've signed on to PayPal at www.paypal.com with your password, click on "send funds" and a form will come up where you will fill in our email (hollyoa@hotmail.com) as the person you want to pay, the amount you are sending (and what form of currency you are using). There's a line for a note: please be sure to put in your group number or whether it's a personal or scholarship so that you'll be properly credited. Then click "PAY" and print a receipt. You will receive email confirmation that your money's been sent. No stamps, no figuring out currency exchange. And it's free to you.
 - You may send money as a transfer directly from your bank account or make charges to a credit card. You can make the decision on source of funds separately on each transaction, and can register more than one credit card.
 - Money shows up in the receiver's account immediately if by credit card, or in a few days if by bank account withdrawal. The Region also receives a notification email that funds have been received into our PayPal account. We then can transfer them into our bank account.
